

The American College of Sports Medicine® (ACSM) is pleased to honor Mark Hutchinson, M.D., FACSM, with a 2020 ACSM Citation Award for his significant contributions to the fields of sports medicine and exercise science.

Dr. Hutchinson is Distinguished Professor of Orthopaedics and Sports Medicine, Director of Sports Medicine Services, and Head Team Physician at the University of Illinois at Chicago. He has worked with athletes ranging from recreational the professional and Olympic level and has edited four books and authored over 40 book chapters and over 100 peer reviewed publications in prestigious journals.

Dr. Hutchinson earned a Bachelor of Science with double majors in Chemistry and Psychology from the University of Illinois in Champaign, Illinois, in 1983 and a M.D. from the University of Illinois in Chicago 1987. He completed an orthopaedic residency at Michigan State University from 1987 to 1992 and a postgraduate fellowship at Kentucky Sports Medicine from 1992 to 1993.

Dr. Hutchinson joined ACSM in 1993 and became a fellow in 1998, subsequently serving on myriad ACSM committees, as well as serving on the Board of Trustees, as Vice President, as Foundation President, and on the editorial boards of both Medicine & Science in Sports & Exercise® and Current Sports Medicine Reports. He has received significant recognition and numerous awards, including the AAOS Achievement Award 2018, University teaching awards, and a myriad Top Doctor awards for the city of Chicago, the state of Illinois, the U.S., and worldwide.

According to nominator Margot Putukian, M.D., FACSM, “Dr. Hutchinson has a resume that is impressive, not only for his scientific and scholarly work, but also for the clinical work and leadership he demonstrates. He is the ultimate educator and clearly has a passion for teaching others and being inclusive in his efforts.”

She continues, “He has been integral in several team physician initiatives including his work as a team physician at the collegiate level as well as at the elite level with the US Olympic and Paralympic Committee. He has been involved in the Team Physician, International Team Physician, and Advanced Team Physician Courses, and directed or co-directed several of these, providing a collaborative experience for all of the faculty and participants. His passion for teaching and multidisciplinary approach to sports medicine is tremendous.”

It is ACSM’s honor to confer upon Dr. Hutchinson a 2020 Citation Award.