I. INITIAL CERTIFICATION

A. CCRB Mission and Objectives

ACSM’s Committee on Certification and Registry Boards (CCRB) Mission and Objectives (excerpted from the ACSM CCRB Operating Code, June, 2005):

CCRB Mission Statement: The CCRB will develop, provide, and market high quality, accessible, affordable credentials for health and exercise professionals who are responsible for preventive and rehabilitative programs that influence the health and well-being of all individuals.

- Quality Assurance and Consistency: The CCRB will continually upgrade the quality and consistency of all certification and registry programs as they relate to workshops, educational materials, exam format and content, management plans, materials to the candidate, and internal and external review of the workshops and/or examination sites.

- Career Relevancy and Advocacy: The CCRB will maintain a leadership position in the profession and marketplace by promoting superior standards and communicating information concerning the unique attributes of ACSM credentialed professionals in the public sector (e.g., students, educational institutions, practitioners, employers, peer professional organizations, governmental agencies, and others).

- Service: The CCRB will create and maintain an international network of ACSM credentialed professionals and to encourage continuing education opportunities.

- Expansion/Growth: The CCRB will expand examination opportunities, thus increasing the number of credentialed individuals, facilities, and educational institutions which adhere to the ACSM certification and registry guidelines.

- Educational Outreach: The CCRB will be responsive to other groups and organizations who express interest in our credentials and programs or the development of group specific continuing education programs.

B. Purpose of Certification

ACSM certification is granted when a candidate demonstrates: 1) Compliance with published eligibility requirements, and 2) Competency (through standardized and objective evaluation) with respect to the specific knowledge and skills attributed to a specific ACSM credential.

C. CCRB Exam Development Process

ACSM CCRB certification exams (our instruments) are designed to measure a specific level of competency. We set specifications for the examinations based on a body of knowledge (validity), often referred to as a set of knowledge and skills. We use specified procedures in test development and administration to ensure reliability. By a means of calibration (examination analysis and systematic standard setting) we add to our confidence that the ACSM CCRB certification exams are valid and reliable. In other words, the certification program is a measurement enterprise relying on technologies developed from research and development based on theories of testing individuals for a variety of purposes.
C.1 THE JOB TASK ANALYSIS

ACSM CCRB certification examinations are comprised of a variety of conventional and innovative item types that are created with reference to a specified body of knowledge. When the techniques or methods used in practice change, this body of knowledge changes too. Periodic evaluation of this body of knowledge occurs via a Job Task Analysis (JTA), or a Role Delineation Study. Typically, a large, representative sample of the professional population and/or a panel of subject matter experts are asked to evaluate and potentially revise knowledge and skills, as well as recommend new knowledge and skills based on emerging trends in daily practice. Part of this process involves determining the criticality of each knowledge and skill by ranking its importance and frequency of application or recall in typical daily, weekly or monthly work. By conducting a JTA according to widely-accepted best practices, the resulting examination stays current, relevant, and valid. It is important to recognize that the outcome of this emphasis on validity is to make appropriate decisions about the results of the candidates who take the exams.

C.2 EXAM BLUEPRINTS AND SPECIFICATIONS

The weighting of importance for each content area of the exam is derived from the overall evaluation of the criticality scores for groups of knowledge and skills. This determines what percentage of each content area is covered during the exam relative to the other content areas (exam blueprint). Furthermore, the total number of questions and the total length of the exam is also derived from the JTA, as well as by consideration of the depth, scope and complexity for each knowledge and skill ultimately being assessed (exam specifications) relative to each content area covered by the certification exam.

C.3 EXAM ITEM WRITING AND PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT

The ACSM CCRB certification exams are developed according to specifications and administered according to specific procedures. As the exams are developed, test questions are selected for exams according to a level of difficulty. For example, we want an exam that is made up of test questions that will provide a fair measure of candidates' abilities before earning the credential. We make sure that all of the topics in the body of knowledge are represented by test questions ranging from easy to difficult. Item writers receive comprehensive item writing training, and we review and edit all test questions to be sure the questions are consistent with widely accepted best practices regarding item writing guidelines. We intend that each test question will help to discriminate between those who should pass the test from those who should not. Items are either operational (scored) or experimental (non-scored). For all exams, a majority of test items are scored and others are non-scored. Both overall exam performance and individual item performance is evaluated periodically, to ensure that each of the test questions is performing for us in the way we want. If an operational (scored) test question is not performing to our specifications, then we will schedule to replace that test question in future versions of the exam. Experimental items that meet or exceed our specifications are converted to scored items, as appropriate, in future versions of the exams.

The ACSM CCRB has an Exam Development Team (EDT), made up of subject matter experts, stakeholders, practitioners and leadership, to provide specific oversight for each credential. The EDT meets at least twice per year, and they are in-touch via email and conference calls periodically throughout the year. At the regularly scheduled meetings, the EDT reviews all the item data available from recent exam administrations. The EDT also reviews a report provided by the consulting psychometrician as to the overall performance on the exams, the passing rates, and item statistics on item performance for all candidates and first time test takers. The EDT reviews experimental/pre-tested items that are outside of statistical criteria range of .4-.9 difficulty, and/or are negatively discriminating items.

Other reasons for item review is to correct flaws or to consider revisions based on item performance that fall above or below the previously mentioned range. All of these items are reviewed and the EDT may rewrite the item to increase or decrease difficulty based on item writing training, correct contextual flaws, or reject the item entirely. Items are also reviewed/created based on needs to increase the item inventory by content area (and/or by specific knowledge or skill) of the exam. The goal is to develop and enhance the item pool by administering items with reliable statistical data within a set range of about .4-.9 difficulty and positive discrimination, since the items within this range around the passing score will be most discriminating and efficient for our purposes of certification testing. In addition, the item writers and reviewers are looking to craft items at a higher taxonomic order than just recall and are trained in how to create such items. Again, the intent is to build a robust item pool with more discriminating items and the higher order items (beyond recall) are more likely to assist to fulfill this goal.

This process of continuous evaluation and revision is intended to improve our reliability and minimize the error in the exam, and to ensure that the various exam forms have equivalent difficulty. We use statistical procedures (such as correlations, bi-serials) to determine degrees of reliability and how much error may be associated with each score (standard error of the mean) as well as across the entire exam (standard error of measurement). By the use of systematic procedures for item development, test development, test administration, and scoring, we increase our level of confidence in the process and can assure the profession at large that our exams are defensible, reliable, and valid.

C.4 STANDARD SETTING (CUT SCORE DETERMINATION)

As we believe that the ACSM CCRB certification exams are valid and reliable, then it is appropriate for us to make the determination that passing the certification exams, along with meeting other qualifications, entitles individuals to earn the appropriate ACSM certification. Our evidence of validity centers on the concept that the certification process includes meeting eligibility requirements and passing the exams appropriate to current practice standards.

The procedures used in developing examinations also involve a process known as "standard setting" for determining a passing score. As we develop exams and select questions for each form, we review each test question and determine by a very structured process how effective the particular test question may be at providing us with a measure of competence. By using an objective process for setting standards, we can add to the validity of the exams and the reliability of candidates' scores.

Our structured process - referred to as an Angoff procedure - involves assembling a panel of subject matter experts (a diverse mix of practitioners, employers, and academicians). The panel members answer the test questions just as if they were the candidate. This provides the experts with a realistic experience as to the difficulty of the exam. The panel members are then given the answer key to review their own results. Next, the panel participates in a discussion to define the acceptable minimum level of competency necessary for a candidate to pass the exam, and to review the minimum knowledge and skills and eligibility qualifications of the candidate who could earn the credential. With this description in mind, each panel member is asked to review each test question and estimate the percentage of such individuals who would answer the question correctly. An average is taken of the estimates for each test question. This average is reviewed and discussed with the group. If items have been carefully selected across the specifications, and the experts achieve a consensus, the results are a passing score for that particular form of the exam. By following this procedure for each exam form we can ensure that all candidates will be treated consistently, with a consideration for the specific difficulty of the exam form.

The effect of this procedure, while taking into account the difficulty of each test question, provides a criterion or standard that is not dependent on a particular group of test takers. Criterion approaches for certification examination programs are much more defensible and stable than normative procedures. The Angoff procedure or some variation is used in most of the certification examination programs in engineering, medicine, nursing, and for the many other licensing and certifying exams we have in the United States. Any examination program that does not employ such a procedure could be considered arbitrary and less than fully defensible.

C.5 TIMELINES

At this time, the ACSM CCRB performs comprehensive JTA's approximately every 3-4 years. Knowledge and skills are revised, as required, throughout this process. Dependent on JTA outcomes, changes to the exam blueprint and specifications follow the final confirmation of any and all knowledge and skill revisions.
All new knowledge and skills are printed in ACSM’s Guidelines for Testing and Prescription, published by Lippincott, Williams and Wilkins. Exams are revised on a periodic basis, as a result of exam activity (exams with higher candidate volumes are revised more rapidly than exams with lower volumes). Major exam changes based on revised knowledge and skill sets are communicated to potential candidates in the ACSM Get Certified Guide, ACSM Certification website (http://certification.acsm.org/), and in all workshop and examination confirmation letters. The ACSM CCRB reserves the right to change any and all components of the exam development process, as determined by current or emerging widely-accepted, evidence-based, best practices.

D. Exam Administration

All ACSM certification exams are delivered in a fixed form, computer-based testing format to optimize security of exam data/results, and to standardize the administrative aspects of exam delivery for all candidates.

D.1 IDENTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

Candidates must provide two forms of proper identification. Candidates will not be seated for the exam if the proper ID is not provided.

The primary ID must contain a permanently affixed photograph and a signature and must be valid (not expired). An ID must be an original document and not a photocopy or a fax.

- A primary ID must contain a permanently affixed photo of the candidate, along with the candidate’s signature. Acceptable primary IDs are listed in the table below.
- A secondary ID must contain the candidate’s signature. Acceptable secondary IDs are listed in the table below.

IDs are considered to be valid (non-expired) as long as they do not contain an expiration date that has passed. If there is no expiration date on an ID, it is considered to be valid. The candidate must sign the ID before arriving at the testing center; it is not acceptable for the candidate to sign the ID when checking in.

The following are acceptable forms of identification:

* A note about credit cards: A credit card can be used as a primary form of ID only if it contains both a photo and a signature and is not expired. Most credit cards do not meet these requirements. Any credit card can be used as a secondary form of ID, as long as it contains a signature and is not expired. This includes major credit cards, such as VISA, MasterCard, American Express and Discover. It also includes department store and gasoline credit cards.

D.2 TESTING ENVIRONMENT

Candidates should dress accordingly so that he/she will be comfortable in wide range of room temperatures.

D.3 CANDIDATE RULES AGREEMENT

Prior to being seated for an exam, candidates will be asked to read and sign a candidate rules agreement and return it to the Test Administrator.

D.4 PERSONAL BELONGINGS

Candidates are not allowed to bring any items into the testing room.

Candidates are discouraged from bringing any personal belongings to the testing center, since these items must be stored in a secure space and are not permitted in the testing room.

Personal belongings that must be stored

The following are examples of items NOT allowed in the testing room:

- Purses
- Refer to the previous page for information about wallets.
- Coats or jackets
- Briefcases
- Cell phones
- Backpacks
- Pagers
- Watches
- Calculators
- Pens and pencils belonging to the candidate (Only writing instruments supplied by the testing center are allowed.)
- Dictionaries, including language translation dictionaries (Many candidates try to take these into the testing room; they are not permitted unless specifically allowed by an exam sponsor.)
- Food, drinks or tobacco
- Notes, notebooks, study guides

Comfort aids

Certain items defined as “minor comfort aids” may be allowed in the testing room as long as the item is checked by the test center administrator before they are brought into the testing room. These include:

- Tissues, such as Kleenex
- Cough drops
- Pillow for supporting neck, back or injured limb
- Sweater or sweatshirt
- Eyeglasses and hearing aids
- Earplugs
- Neck braces or collars (worn by people with neck injuries)
A candidate must provide his or her own comfort aids. These are not considered to be accommodations and therefore do not need to be pre-approved by Pearson VUE or ACSM.

Eyedrops, water bottles, asthma inhalers, diabetic testing equipment and other medical devices are not allowed in the testing room unless the candidate has been granted an accommodation for the item in advance. Candidates should follow the accommodations policy for consideration of a comfort aid.

D.5  APPROVED EXAM SUPPLIES

The candidate will be provided with an erasable noteboard and erasable pen, or blank notepaper.

Scratch paper of any kind is NEVER permitted in the testing room. Candidates are not allowed to use their own paper or notebooks, and notepads of any kind are not allowed.

Candidates are NOT permitted to bring their own writing instruments into the testing room. The testing center must provide any pens or pencils that are required for an exam.

Candidates are not permitted to write on the erasable noteboards or notepaper until after the exam has been started.

D.6  ACSM NDA & ETHICS CODE COMPLIANCE

Prior to starting the exam, candidates will be asked to agree with the terms described in both the ACSM non-disclosure agreement (NDA) listed below, and the Code of Ethics for ACSM Certified and Registered Professionals (described in section I, part F). Candidates who do not accept the terms of these statements will NOT be allowed to proceed with the exam.

NON-DISCLOSURE AGREEMENT AND GENERAL TERMS OF USE FOR EXAMS DEVELOPED FOR THE AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SPORTS MEDICINE COMMITTEE ON CERTIFICATION AND REGISTRY BOARDS

This exam is American College of Sports Medicine confidential and is protected by trade secret law. It is made available to you, the examinee, solely for the purpose of becoming certified in the area referenced in the title of this exam. You are expressly prohibited from disclosing, publishing, reproducing, or transmitting this exam, in whole or in part, in any form or by any means, verbal or written, electronic or mechanical, for any purpose, without the prior express written permission of the American College of Sports Medicine.

D.7 RANDOM AUDITING PROCESS – ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

All candidates who successfully complete an ACSM certification exam are subject to an audit to confirm their eligibility, and/or the status of their CPR certification.

Every month, 15% of candidates who received a passing score in the previous month for the ACSM Certified Exercise Physiologist and ACSM Certified Clinical Exercise Physiologist credentials will be audited for completion of an academic degree using a third party vendor. If a degree cannot be confirmed using the third party vendor, ACSM will contact the candidate and request an official transcript noting the completed degree. Transcripts must be submitted within 30 days of the request by ACSM.
The same 15% of candidates who are audited for the ACSM Certified Clinical Exercise Physiologist credential will need to complete clinical documentation form within 30 days of being audited for their exam. ACSM will contact the audited candidate by mail, therefore it is imperative that candidates keep their address and contact information updated with ACSM. Once the clinical hours are submitted, ACSM will mail a certification packet to the newly certified professional.

Additionally, candidates who received a passing score on any ACSM certification exam in the previous month may be audited to verify current CPR certification. If contacted in this regard, candidates must provide documentation of their current CPR status within 30 days of the request by ACSM.

ACSM reserves the right to revoke the credential of any individual that cannot verify their eligibility and/or current CPR certification as part of the ACSM audit verification process.

D.8 PRE-TEST TUTORIAL

A short pre-test tutorial is provided to allow candidates to become familiar with the mouse, selecting answer choices, and/or marking items for review. Time allocated for the tutorial is separate from the exam time.

D.9 BREAKS

If the candidate requires a break during the exam, the timing of the exam will not stop. The candidate’s ID may be checked upon returning to the exam room.

D.10 NO SHOWS/LATE ARRIVALS

Candidates should make every effort to arrive at the testing center at least 15 minutes before their scheduled appointment time.

If a candidate arrives within 15 minutes of the scheduled appointment time and the test center administrator is not able to seat the candidate for the exam, the candidate will have the opportunity to reschedule the exam without penalty. Because the appointment time has already passed, the test center administrator will not be able to reschedule the candidate.

If a candidate arrives more than 15 minutes after the scheduled appointment time, it is up to the discretion of the testing center as to whether or not the candidate may still take the exam (either immediately or later the same day).

If the test center is unable to accommodate a late-arriving candidate, the candidate will be unable to take the test that day. The candidate will need to register for the exam and pay the exam fee again. The candidate’s results will be automatically entered in the testing system as “no show.”

If a candidate does not arrive for an exam at all, the candidate will be listed as a “no show” and will forfeit all fees associated with this appointment. Candidates may reschedule a new appointment, but will be responsible for the cost of the rescheduled exam.

D.11 ACCOMMODATIONS

Candidates may request, in advance, reasonable accommodations in accordance with the Disability Policy. Please refer to Part K of this section for additional details.

D.12 CANDIDATE MISCONDUCT
Action taken against candidates who create disturbances or conduct themselves in a manner that may jeopardize the security of an exam or the comfort of other candidates may include removal from the certification program.

Misconduct includes the following behaviors:

- using unauthorized materials in the testing room
- taking an exam for someone else
- causing disruptions of any kind
- attempting to remove exam questions or responses from the testing room
- tampering with computer hardware or software

D.13 SCORE REPORTS

Score reports will not be distributed until a candidate has returned all testing materials, including the erasable noteboard, and all other sign-out procedures have been completed.

Each score report will be digitally embossed to verify the authenticity of the report. The digital embossing is a unique set of codes that can be used to verify the authenticity of the report and a registration number and a validation number appear on the bottom of each score report. Candidates can visit Pearson VUE's authentication Web site: www.pearsonvue.com/authenticate and enter the unique set of codes and find out whether or not the score report is valid. Verification is available approximately 48 hours after completion of the exam. ACSM’s CCRB reserves the right to void exam results, pending receipt, investigation, and confirmation of any subsequent incident reports regarding irregular behavior, either from a candidate or Pearson VUE testing center staff.

How are the exams scored?
The passing score for all ACSM certification exams is set in advance and applied to all candidates' exam results. Similar to exam scoring for a wide variety of other high stakes, national standardized exams (e.g., GRE, SAT, GMAT, etc.), ACSM certification exams are reported on a 200-800 score scale.

Specifically, all candidates are expected to meet the passing standard of a scaled score of 550 in order to receive a "Pass" on any respective ACSM certification exam. This passing standard is based upon the expectations of the subject matter experts/test developers across all topics of the competency areas, as related to each respective credential's examination blueprint. Passing candidates are expected to answer a sufficient number of test questions correctly that demonstrates a summative amount of knowledge at a level of at least minimal competency or the lowest acceptable score to pass the exam.

Finally, each content area is weighted proportionally, based on the results of a periodic comprehensive job task analysis/role delineation study. In other words, some content areas are more important (thus, have more questions) and count more with respect to the overall score than other content areas. On the score report, candidates receive their overall score, their pass/fail status, as well as a breakdown by each specific content area.

After completing the exam, when will I receive my results?
You will receive your results immediately upon completion of the exam.

If I do not pass the exam, how quickly can I take a re-test?
Re-test candidates with receive a re-test voucher number from Pearson VUE. You may retake the exam 15 days following your initial exam and every 15 days following.

J. Non-Discrimination Policy

The American College of Sports Medicine strives to comply with all applicable federal and state laws. It does not knowingly violate such laws in its employment activities, membership policies, membership programs, educational activities, honor programs, certification matters, or program funding, nor knowingly discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, gender, sexual preference, military status, age, national or ethnic origin, disability or handicap. It attempts to make its programs equally accessible to all persons regardless of disability.

K. Disability Policy

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 (PL 101-336) is a sweeping civil rights law which is intended to eliminate discrimination against people with disabilities in all aspects of life. The American College of Sports Medicine examination program embraces the law in both letter and spirit.

ACSM requests that candidates with disabilities note it on the workshop application. ACSM will then request specific information regarding the accommodations being requesting. Once approved, the special accommodations will be listed on the weekly site roster that is sent from the National Office to the Site Contact.

When the special accommodations are identified, the Workshop Director (WD) or Site Coordinator (SC) must contact that person to determine that the accommodations are going to be met.

After a person with a disability self-identifies on the application and is contacted by the WD or SC, the Account Representative (AR) must be contacted to determine the reasonable accommodation. Decisions regarding reasonable accommodations will be made on a case-by-case basis. The reasonable accommodation may be made in consultation with the AR, WD, SC, Credential Chair, CCRB Chair and ACSM National Office staff. However, any deviation from the Workshop Management Plan (e.g. equipment modification, simulator problems, etc.) must receive prior approval.

Title I of the ADA states "Employers [certifying bodies] should conduct a job analysis to determine the essential functions of each job (knowledge and skills - KSs). When an individual with a disability meets legitimate educational, skill, and experience qualifications for a position [credential examination] the employer must make a reasonable accommodation. Reasonable accommodations include, but are not limited to, reassignment of non-essential tasks, providing auxiliary aids or services, removing architectural barriers in the workplace..." Title III includes a provision for "changing rules or practices" for individuals with disabilities who meet essential eligibility requirements. Reasonable accommodations for the purpose of conducting an ACSM credential examination may include text magnification, assistive listening devices, readers, and extended time.

Requests for special accommodations for an ACSM credentialing exam can be made by emailing certification@acsm.org.

L. Irregular Behavior

The ACSM Committee on Certification and Registry Boards (CCRB) defines irregular behavior as any behavior that undermines or threatens the integrity of the application, assessment or certification processes of ACSM CCRB, whether it occurs before, during or after an exam.

Irregular behavior may include, but is not limited to, having or seeking access to exam materials before the exam, impersonating an examinee or engaging someone else to take the exam by proxy, copying answers from someone else or allowing one’s answers to be copied, copying or memorizing and reproducing test items, altering or misrepresenting scores, stealing exam materials, possessing unauthorized materials during a computer-based exam (e.g., including, but not limited to, recording devices, photographic materials, printed reference material, etc.) or other such behavior which may cast doubt on the exam results of that or another person. It may also include making false representations during the application process or in connection with certification status, altering or falsifying ACSM certificates or other documents, or making the false representation that one is certified by ACSM by using the legally-protected marks identity marks.

The content of all ACSM CCRB exams and each of its items is proprietary and strictly confidential, and the unauthorized retention, possession, copying, distribution, disclosure, discussion, or receipt of any examination question, in whole or in part, by written, electronic, oral or other form of communication, including but not limited to e-mailing, copying or printing of electronic files, and reconstruction through memorization and/or dictation, before, during, or after an examination, is strictly prohibited. In addition to constituting irregular behavior subject to disciplinary action such as revocation of certification or revocation of eligibility for future certification for a specified period of time, such activities violate ACSM’s proprietary rights, including copyrights, and may subject violators to legal action.

Exam applicants or examinees can be disqualified from taking or continuing to sit for an examination, or from receiving examination scores, and may be required to retake an examination if, at its sole discretion, the ACSM CCRB Executive Council (EC) determines through proctor observation, statistical analysis or any other means available to it, that said exam applicants or examinees were engaged in collaborative, disruptive, or other irregular behavior before, during the administration of, or following, the examination, or if the ACSM CCRB EC determines that the integrity or validity of the examination otherwise is in question.

In some instances, while the evidence of irregularity is sufficiently strong to cast doubt upon the validity of scores, such evidence may not enable the ACSM CCRB EC to identify the particular individuals involved. In any such circumstances, the ACSM CCRB EC reserves the right to withhold the scores of all candidates, including candidates not directly implicated in the irregularity and, if necessary, to require all candidates to take an additional examination at a later date under conditions which will ensure the validity of all scores.

Anyone who has information or evidence that irregular behavior has occurred should submit a written, signed statement to the ACSM CCRB EC as describe in the “Complaints” policy, detailing the incident with copies of any supporting evidence or documentation.

If the ACSM CCRB EC determines that allegations of irregular behavior are true, the organization may impose sanctions against the offending individual, which may include temporary or permanent loss of eligibility for exams or certification, revocation of an existing certificate, suspension of certification, invalidation of scores, or other sanctions as deemed appropriate. Such sanctions also may include legal action against the offending individual.

M. Complaint Policy

Any candidate may file a complaint with ACSM if he/she does not feel he/she was appropriately graded on the certification exam or if he/she feels that there was a valid problem with the workshop or examination process.

When a candidate contacts the National Office with a complaint, the National Office will offer to resolve the issue, if possible. The staff at the National Office are not allowed to release exam scores or copies of the written exam to anyone outside of the Committee on Certification and Registry Boards (CCRB).

If the candidate still feels that his/her complaint is valid, then documentation needs to be sent to the National Office, in writing, either by e-mail certification@acsm.org or fax 317-634-7817. Please include exam score sheet with a complaint letter if applicable.

If the complaint is about exam scores, it will be handled by the ACSM National Office. If the complaint is about the workshop guidelines, then the complaint and all contact information for the workshop will be sent to the appropriate Credentialing Chair (CC) and Account Representative (AR).

The AR is responsible for investigating workshop complaints and will provide a response to the appropriate CC within 30 days. Once a resolution has been agreed upon, if possible, by the AR and CC, the AR will contact the candidate directly as to the resolution. The AR will also communicate all findings with the National Office.

All documentation regarding appeals/complaints is kept on file indefinitely at the National Office.

N. Appeals Policy

Appeals regarding candidate disputes or disciplinary decisions by the CCRB Ethics and Professional Conduct subcommittee, based on perceived lack of due process, may be appealed to the CCRB EC. An appeal to the CCRB EC must be made in writing signed by the appellant, addressed to the CCRB EC and received within 30 days of the date of a decision by the CCRB Ethics and Professional Conduct subcommittee. The written appeal must identify the precise factual basis, applicable rules or circumstances that are the basis for the appeal. The CCRB Ethics and Professional Conduct subcommittee shall maintain a record of all appeals, take appropriate action regarding the appeal in a timely manner, and document the actions taken. The ACSM CCRB EC may report on the status and outcome of appeals only according to the confidentiality policies. All appeals should be reviewed for possible corrective actions within the Operating Guidelines and Operating Policies.
The organization for the appeal consideration will be an ad hoc committee of the CCRB EC activated to consider appeals as an Appeals Panel, hereafter referred to as the CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel. The CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel will examine the request and the circumstances of the appellant’s claim, review the decision as rendered by the CCRB Ethics and Professional Conduct subcommittee and verify that all measures of due process have been met by the appellant and the CCRB Ethics and Professional Conduct subcommittee. The CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel must operate under conditions of confidentiality, and manage all appeals so as resolution is done in an efficient and timely manner generally within 30-45 days of the initiation of the appeal. All decisions by the CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel are final. The CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel will consist of three members appointed by the Chair of CCRB with the National Director of Certification and Registry Programs serving as Secretary in a non-voting capacity. Any member of the CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel with a potential conflict of interest must recuse themselves from a specific appeal where a conflict is apparent. The Chair will then appoint an alternate to the CCRB Ethics Appeal Panel.
II. RECERTIFICATION

B. Purpose of Recertification

The purpose of periodic recertification occurs through the documentation of (and confirmation, when required) of required continuing educational activities, to ensure competency and maintain a high standard for certified professionals beyond the initial three-year period following successful passing of an ACSM certification exam.

A. Frequently Asked CEC and Recertification Questions

What is recertification?
ACSM’s credentialing programs encourage ongoing competency and continuing education and strive to maintain a high standard for our certified and registered professionals. Therefore, all ACSM credentialed professionals are required to recertify or renew their credentials. The requirements for maintaining an ACSM credential vary by level, but all professionals who are ACSM certified or members of the Registry for Clinical Exercise Physiologists are required to earn a specific amount of continuing education credits (CECs) during their certification/registry cycle. Along with this educational component, ACSM charges a nominal administrative fee for recertification/renewal.

What do I need to do in order to recertify?
You will receive recertification information during the spring of the year you are due to recertify. In order to recertify without retaking the certification examination again, you must complete the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form on-line at http://certification.acsm.org/renew-your-certification and pay the appropriate recertification fee. Please keep all documentation of CECs for your records. ACSM will conduct random audits each year. If audited, you will be required to provide documented proof of all credits to the ACSM National Office.

May I submit my CPR, BLS, or ACLS certification for credits?
ACSM does not award credits for CPR, BLS, or ACLS certifications. Educational courses for ACLS may be applied towards your renewal. The number of educational contact hours for ACLS training are equivalent to the number of CECs awarded (e.g. 3 contact hours = 3 ACSM CECs). Note: This does not include the actual completion of the ACLS certification exam.

My certification is up this year, and I don’t have enough credits. Can I have an extension?
All professionals are granted a six (6) month grace period but are considered INACTIVE during this period and will be charged a $25 late fee. You do not need to contact ACSM for that extension as the grace periods are done automatically, no paperwork is required. During this time frame, you will not receive any benefits of being certified. All benefits will be re-instated as soon as you submit a complete recertification form and payment. Once the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form has been submitted and the appropriate fees have been paid, the next recertification cycle will continue on the original schedule.
What is the yearly audit?
In order to ensure high standards of competency and continuing education, ACSM will process a yearly audit on recertification forms. ACSM will audit a percentage of randomly selected ACSM Recertification/Renewal Forms submitted the previous year. This audit will be conducted at each credential level. If audited, you will be required to provide documented proof of all CECs to the ACSM National Office within 30 days. If you are unable to provide documented proof within 30 days, your certification will be considered inactive and you will have one year to complete the recertification process by providing the documentation or by obtaining new CECs. All audit paperwork will be reviewed for validity by the CCRB Continuing Professional Education (CPE) Subcommittee. If all paperwork is complete and the appropriate number of CECs are earned, the professional will be notified that his credential is valid until the next recertification due date. If after submission of CECs, it is determined that some CECs are not applicable, an appropriate amount of time will be allowed for the professional to earn additional replacement CECs.

What does inactive status mean?
During inactive status, you should not market yourself as ACSM certified or registered. You are also not able to serve as an examiner or other member of an ACSM host site where certification is required. During this time frame, the professional will not receive any benefits of being certified. All benefits will be re-instated as soon as you submit a complete recertification form and payment.

If you submit a satisfactory ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form online at http://certification.acsm.org/renew-your-certification during the inactive period, your certification will be reinstated and considered current. If you fail to submit the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form by the end of the inactive period your certification will be considered invalid. Once your certification becomes invalid, you are no longer ACSM certified and your certification can only be reinstated by taking the entire certification examination again.

If you renew during your inactive year or any time after your original due date, you will be required to pay an additional late fee.

What is the difference between ACSM endorsed programs and non-ACSM endorsed programs?

How do I earn CECs for workshops that I attend that are not ACSM workshops?
ACSM's Education Department reviews and endorses programs that meet specific educational guidelines. These are considered ACSM endorsed programs. If you attend an endorsed program, an attendance verification form will be available on-site for those requesting CECs. A nominal processing fee is also required by those seeking credits. For a list of ACSM Approved Providers go to www.acsm.org and click on ‘Find Continuing Education Credits’, click ‘earning CMEs’, click ‘Approved Provider Program’.

The ACSM Certification & Registry Department will recognize CECs, CMEs, or CEUs awarded by other professional health & fitness or clinical organizations for attending their programs without it being pre-approved or endorsed by the ACSM Education Department. These are considered non-ACSM endorsed programs. You must obtain documentation from that organization verifying attendance and the number of CECs earned. ACSM does not accept CECs for certification exams, professional memberships, or committee involvement. Please keep all documentation of non-ACSM CECs for your records. Only send in the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form and payment when it is time for you to recertify or recertify online at www.acsm.org/recertify. We will process an audit the following year. If you are audited, we will request all documentation at that time.

How do I get credit for college courses?
You will need a copy of your transcripts for your records. ACSM awards 10 CECs per college credit hour as long as the course meets the following criteria-1) you must receive credit for the course after you become certified; 2) you must receive a C or better for the course; 3) the course must be related to your certification. Examples of acceptable courses are: physical education, exercise science, kinesiology, kinesiotherapy, athletic training, sports management, exercise physiology, human performance, and recreation management/science. If you are unsure if the course is related to your certification, please refer to the JTA found in ACSM’s Guidelines for Exercise Testing and Prescription. You will not send a copy of your transcripts to ACSM for approval. You will only submit the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form online at http://certification.acsm.org/renew-your-certification with payment when it is time for you to recertify. We will process an audit the following year. If you are audited, we will request all documentation at that time.

How many CECs do I get for teaching and lecturing?
You can claim 1 CEC per hour of academic teaching as long as the coursework is consistent with your KSs and the course is taught at an accredited institution. If the class is a college course, do not refer to the college credit hours earned. It is still worth 1 CEC per contact hour of academic teaching. Credit can be claimed for teaching the course content once during a recertification cycle. You can claim 1 CEC per hour of lecturing if it is a lecture given at the state, regional, or national level or if CECs are offered for the lecture attendees. You can earn up to 30% of your CECs by teaching and lecturing. Documentation stating that you taught the class or gave the lecture along with content will be required should you be audited, ie-course catalog, course syllabus, letter from supervisor, meeting brochure showing you as a lecturer. Keep this documentation for your records. Only submit the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form online at http://certification.acsm.org/renew-your-certification with payment when you recertify. We will process an audit the following year. If you are audited, we will request all documentation at that time.

Do CECs carry over?
CECs are continuing education credits and, as such, do not carry over from one recertification time frame to another.

What should I do with all of my documentation? Where do I send it? ACSM does not require CEC documentation at that time of recertification. Only submit the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form online at http://certification.acsm.org/renew-your-certification with payment when you recertify. We will send you a new certificate once payment and form are received by the Certification Department. If you do not receive a new certificate within 4-6 weeks of sending your form and payment, please contact the Certification Department at certification@acsm.org. The following year, ACSM will conduct an audit. If you are audited, you will have 30 days to send in all documentation to ACSM for review. Please save all CEC documentation for one calendar year following the renewal of your certification in case you are audited.

What if my CECs do not appear on the ACSM-CEC print-out?
If you attended an ACSM endorsed program and submitted the CEC form and processing fee for documentation, or if you attended an ACSM endorsed program within the last year but did not request CECs, please contact the ACSM Continuing Education Department at education@acsm.org. If you attended a non-ACSM endorsed program, these CECs will not appear on this print. You should obtain documentation of these CECs from the program organizer and keep the documentation for your records (refer to the question above on what to do with your documentation).

I need more CECs and I don't have time to travel to conferences. How can I obtain additional CECs?
ACSM’s Home Study Programs are the perfect way to earn credits without leaving home. You can earn credits by reading various journals or online articles and taking self-tests. A listing of ACSM-endorsed Home Study opportunities can be found on the ACSM website, http://www.acsm.org/find-continuing-education/cec-cme-opportunities and clicking on Approved Provider Program.

What's the difference between CECs, CEUs, and CMEs?
Different professional organizations offer continuing education credits; most commonly called CECs (continuing education credits), CEUs (continuing education units), and CMEs (continuing medical education credits are for physicians only). Although each has a different contact hour requirement, most CECs require one contact hour of professional activity for one credit.
I received a Certificate of Attendance for a workshop I attended. Can I submit the Certificate of Attendance for CECs?
ACSM only recognizes workshops or conferences that have been approved for any type of continuing education credits, whether offered by ACSM or not. When a conference or workshop is approved to offer continuing education credits, the program has been evaluated by an outside professional organization and is considered to contain significant educational material. A certificate of attendance only means that you attended a workshop, it does not guarantee that the workshop provided significant educational material or any continuing education credits.

B. ACSM Recertification Requirements

Recertification will be granted if each of the following criteria is met:

1. The candidate accumulates the required number of Continuing Education Credits (CECs), Continuing Medical Education (CMEs), Continuing Education Units (CEUs) and/or the equivalent, (please see examples below)

2. The candidate maintains a current CPR Certification and

3. The candidate pays the required recertification fee.

OR, a credentialed professional has the option to repeat the certification testing of that particular level of certification of which they wish to be recertified. The current cost of taking the examination for the first time will apply. If the exam is no longer offered then this option does not apply.

D. Random Auditing Process - Recertification

At the time of recertification/renewal, you are only required to submit the ACSM Recertification/Renewal Form online at www.acsm.org/recertify, but you must retain all documented proof of obtained credits for one year. Examples of documented proof would include certificate copies, letters of attendance with CEC verification, transcripts, copy of first page of article or manuscript showing author, title, publication name, etc. ACSM will audit a percentage of randomly selected ACSM Recertification/Renewal Forms. This audit will be conducted at each credential level. If audited, you will be required to provide documented proof of all CECs to the ACSM National Office within 30 days. If you are unable to provide documented proof within 30 days, your certification will be considered “inactive” and you will have one year to complete the recertification process by providing the documentation or by obtaining new CECs.

All audit paperwork will be reviewed for validity by the CCRB Continuing Professional Education (CPE) Subcommittee. If all paperwork is complete and the appropriate number of CECs are earned, the professional will be notified that his credential is valid until the next recertification due date. If after submission of CECs, it is determined that some CECs are not applicable, an appropriate amount of time will be allowed for the professional to earn additional replacement CECs.
E. Renewal Reminders

ACSM will contact all credentialed professionals via postal mail in the spring of the year they are due to recertify (recertification due dates are listed on the individual’s certificate). As follow up, ACSM will contact the professional three other times during that year via postal mail and/or e-mail to remind the professional. ACSM will then contact those that do not recertify one more time in their grace period. It is the responsibility of the credentialed professional to submit the ACSM Recertification/Renewal form online at http://certification.acsm.org/renew-your-certification prior to the expiration of their credentials.

Please keep your address and e-mail address up to date with ACSM in order to ensure that you receive recertification information in a timely manner. If you have any questions about recertification, ACSM meetings and endorsed programs, ACSM’s Certified News publication or ACSM ProFinder, please visit our website at http://certification.acsm.org/.
