Frequently Asked Questions for Recertification

I have my certification, what are the requirements to keep it?

Now that you have earned your certification, you have 3 years to accumulate the required number of Continuing Education Credits (CECs), Continuing Education Units (CEUs), Continuing Medical Education (CMEs), and/or the equivalent based on your certification.

In addition, you must pay the required recertification fee and maintain CPR certification.

Level of Certification	CECs	Fee
ACSM Certified Exercise Physiologist® ACSM Certified Clinical Exercise Physiologist® ACSM Program Director ACSM Health Fitness Director	60 CECs	$55
ACSM Certified Group Exercise Instructor® ACSM Certified Personal Trainer®	45 CECs	$45
ACSM/NPAS Physical Activity in Public Health Specialist	45 CECs	$35
ACSM Exercise Test Technologist	30 CECs	$45
ACSM/NCHPAD Certified Inclusive Fitness Trainer ACSM/ACS Certified Cancer Exercise Trainer®	15 CECs	$35

What do I need to do in order to recertify?

ACSM requires recertification every three years in order to ensure competency and maintain the highest standards for ACSM certified professionals beyond their initial three-year certification period.

You will receive recertification information during the spring of the year you are due to recertify. This is why it is very important to keep the certification department updated with any changes in your mailing or e-mail address. In order to recertify without retaking the certification examination, you must renew online at acsm.org/get-stay-certified/stay-certified and pay the recertification fee, or fill out the paper form sent to you during the spring of the year you are due to renew.

Please keep all documentation of CECs for your records. ACSM conducts random audits each year. If audited, you will be required to provide documented proof of all credits to the ACSM national office.

How do I recertify?

In order to renew your certification at the end of three years, you will need to meet the following minimum requirements:

Option 1

1. Earn the required number of Continuing Education Credits (CECs); and
2. Maintain a current cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) certification; and
3. Pay the required three-year recertification/renewal fee.

Option 2

Retake the certification examination for which they wish to be recertified if exam is available and candidate still meets the minimum requirements).

For more details, visit acsm.org/get-stay-certified/stay-certified.

What if I don't have enough credits to recertify or fail to renew on time?

You do not need to contact ACSM for an extension. You are automatically granted a six month grace period, but you are considered inactive and you will not receive any benefits of being certified during this time. Your certification will be reinstated once the online renewal form has been submitted along with the appropriate fees including a $25 late fee. Your next recertification cycle will continue on the original schedule. You also have the option of re-taking the certification exam if CECs are not accumulated.

Contact certification@acsm.org for more information.

Random CEC auditing process

ACSM audits a percentage of randomly selected ACSM recertification forms at each credential level every year. If audited, you will be required to provide documented proof of your CECs to the ACSM National Office within 30 days.

If you are unable to provide documented proof within 30 days, your certification will be considered inactive and you will have one year to complete the recertification process by providing the documentation or by obtaining new CECs. All audit paperwork will be reviewed for validity by the CCRB continuing professional education (CPE) subcommittee. If all paperwork is complete and the appropriate number of CECs are earned, you will be notified that your certification is valid until your next recertification due date.

If after submission of CECs, it is determined that some CECs are not applicable, an appropriate amount of time will be allowed for you to earn additional replacement CECs.

What CEC documentation should I keep just in case I get audited?

- Document with your name (proves you actually attended—certificate of attendance/completion, letter, registration info).
- Date of attendance (proves that the event was during your current active certification cycle).
- Content (proves the event was directly related to your certification—course grid, syllabus, program itinerary, abstract).
- Hours (proves the amount of CECs you were awarded for attending, or the amount of hours you participated).

Can I use non-ACSM CECs?

The ACSM certification & registry department will recognize CECs, CMEs, or CEUs awarded by other professional health fitness or clinical organizations for attending their programs without it being pre-approved by ACSM's education department. The program must be related to your certification and you must obtain documentation from that organization verifying attendance and the number of CECs earned. ACSM does not accept CECs for certification exams, professional memberships, committee involvement or CPR training. However, if you attended a workshop/seminar/course/training session/webinar, etc. to prepare you for another organizations' exam, you may receive CECs.

Here is an example of how non-ACSM CECs convert to ACSM CECs: ACE, NSCA, NASM - 0.1 = 1.0 ACSM CEC OR AFAA - 1.0 = 1.0 ACSM CEC

There is no formal petitioning process for acceptance of CECs. Please do not send in CEC documentation unless you are audited.

What will ACSM accept for CECs?

- Attend an ACSM Certification Workshop or Webinar series.
- Participate in an ACSM Approved Provider Offering
- Clinical/Hospital Grand Rounds
- Team Physician Course
- Advanced Team Physician Course
- Regional Chapter and Specialty Conferences
- Scientific Roundtables
- Complete Distance Education or internet continuing education programs on specific clinical or health and fitness-related topics.
- Attend Professional Education Meetings from ACSM or other nationally recognized organizations.
- Take Continuing Education Self Tests that offer CECs, CMEs or CEUs from ACSM or other nationally recognized organizations.
- Participate in training/course offering from ACSM or other nationally recognized organization. (Zumba®, Wellcoaches®, etc.)
- ACSM's Health and Fitness Journal (only offered to ACSM Members)
- Take and receive a passing grade in a health/fitness or exercise science-related course from an accredited college or university. (10 CECs per credit hour. For example, a 3 credit hour course is worth 30 CECs. Course must be health/fitness or clinical related and completed with a grade of "C" or better. The course must be taken during your current cycle)
- Author or co-author books, journal articles, or accepted abstracts. (10 CECs for each publication in peer-reviewed professional journals, books, or accepted abstracts; authored or co-authored)
- Teach academic courses; conduct classroom instruction; or present health, fitness or clinical lectures at an organized professional conference. (1 CEC per hour. For repetitive classes, credits only granted once in recertification time frame. Only 30 percent of your total credit hours may be obtained by these activities.)

Do CECs carry over?

CECs are continuing education credits and do not carry over from one re-certification time frame to another. Only CECs that were earned during your current active cycle will be accepted.

I took college courses. Will ACSM accept them? Do I need to send my transcripts in?

ACSM awards 10 CECs per college credit hour. Examples of acceptable courses are: exercise science, kinesiology, exercise physiology, human performance, physical education, and anatomy. If you are unsure if the course is related to your certification, please refer to the exam content outlines found at acsm.org/get-stay-certified/stay-certified/recertification-faqs-2. If the course is outside the scope of your certification, it will not be accepted.

You will need to keep a copy of your transcripts for your records in case you are audited. There is no need to send in any documentation now.

The organization that I received CECs from is not listed on the approved provider list on your website. Will you still accept it?

If the CEC event is directly related to your certification it will be accepted, even if it is not listed on the Approved Provider List. Typically there is a listing of organizations that award CECs for the event, or if the actual organization that puts on the event will award CECs, ACSM will match that amount.

The general rule is that the CEC equivalency is always 1 = 1, but if the organization uses the decimal system then it's 0.1 = 1.0.

If there is any doubt, it typically equates to 1 CEC per hour of participation. Please be sure to keep a copy of the documentation proving your attendance in case you are audited in the future.

I attended an ACSM workshop to prepare me for my exam. Can I now use it for CECs?

ACSM will only accept CECs you earned after you've earned your certification.

How do I know if my teaching or lecturing will count for CECs?

The determining factor is if the students listening to your lecture or teaching are receiving: college credit hours or continuing education credits and that the content you are teaching is consistent with the scope of certification.

If the above criteria are not met, you cannot get CECs for it. If they are, you may count the contact hours towards your CEC total, up to 30 percent. Please hold on to all documentation for your records in case you are audited.

I have an ACSM certification. If I gain a higher certification or a specialty certification, do I receive CECs for that?

If you have earned more than one ACSM certification you may renew all of your ACSM certifications. A $5 fee will be charged for each additional credential. For example, if you wish to maintain both the ACSM-CPT and the ACSM-EP certifications, the recertification fee would be $60 ($55 for the highest certification, in this case the ACSM-EP, and $5 for the ACSM-CPT).

Please contact the ACSM Certification Department at certification@acsm.org if you have any additional questions.
