

Lecturer or Assistant Professor, Exercise Physiology

The Exercise Physiology Department at the University of Lynchburg invites applications for a one-year position in Exercise Physiology as a Lecturer or Assistant Professor in the College of Health Sciences for AY 2024-2025. We seek an individual with exceptional potential as a teacher and scholar who can contribute to our undergraduate program and complement existing departmental strengths. The Exercise Physiology program is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP) and is recognized by the NSCA Education Recognition Program. For more information about the Exercise Physiology program, visit our website at <https://www.lynchburg.edu/academics/majors-and-minors/exercise-physiology/>.

The University of Lynchburg is a private, regional liberal arts university in the beautiful foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Central Virginia. We offer students a chance to interact with their professors in a traditional classroom setting as well as through experiential learning. We seek candidates who are committed to the University of Lynchburg's efforts to create an environment that fosters a student-centered experience; develops the breadth of knowledge associated with a liberal arts education; respects and supports diversity, equity, and inclusion; and sustains close working relationships among faculty, staff, students, alumni, and community partners.

Specific Job Duties:

- Teach undergraduate courses in the Exercise Physiology program
- Collaborate with colleagues in the Exercise Physiology department on curriculum development and supervising student research projects
- Opportunity for involvement in scholarship and service to the University
- Apply best practices to facilitate teaching and learning processes and principles with a commitment to continuous quality improvement
- Document student learning, interpret outcomes, and record grades.
- Maintain accurate and appropriate student, instructor, course, and program documentation.
- Establish and maintain professional and ethical boundaries with students, co-workers, and others in all learning environments.

Benefits:

- Generous sick time and family leave, comprehensive insurance (medical, dental, vision, etc.) and retirement plans, flexible spending account, tuition remission, life and long-term disability insurance, and more. Learn more about employment benefits at the University of Lynchburg. Learn more about employment benefits at the University of Lynchburg.

Teaching Load:

- The normal teaching load is 12 credit hours per semester

Salary: Salary and rank are commensurate with education and experience

Physical Demands:

- Prolonged periods standing or sitting at a desk

Required Qualifications/Education:

- Masters in Exercise Physiology, Kinesiology, or related field is required; PhD preferred. ABD candidates will be considered.

- A primary interest in teaching undergraduates at a liberal arts institution is a must.
- Previous teaching experience is desired.
- ACSM-EP or NSCA-CSCS certification is preferred.

Work Remotely:

- No

Candidates may show interest in this position by submitting to the Human Resources Jobs Page the following:

- A completed application
- A cover letter to include your Teaching Philosophy with a statement on your approach to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness
- A current curriculum vitae (CV) or resume
- Graduate and undergraduate transcripts (unofficial transcripts accepted; however, official transcripts are required upon an offer and acceptance of position)
- Names and contact information for three professional references
- Note: Multiple documents may be uploaded to either the CV or Cover Letter button. Questions can be directed to Dr. DuAnn Kremer, Chair, Exercise Physiology Search Committee at kremer.d@lynchburg.edu.

Review of applications and materials will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. The selected candidate must successfully complete a background check that is satisfactory to the University.

The University of Lynchburg is committed to diversity within its community and welcomes applications from persons of color, women, Indigenous/aboriginal people of North America, persons with disabilities, the LGBTQIA+ community, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the University of Lynchburg community.

The University of Lynchburg is an equal-opportunity employer.